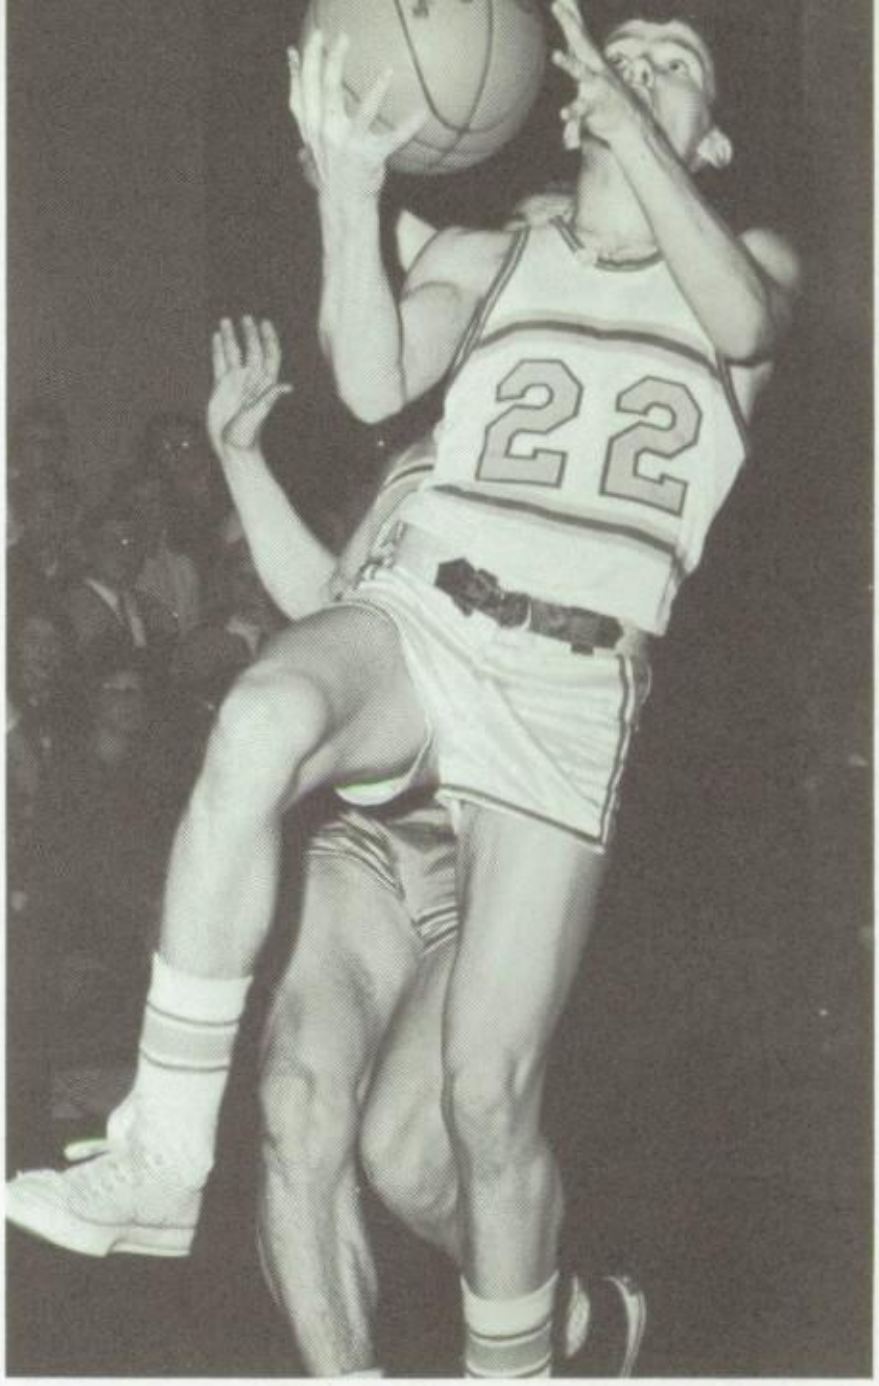
Excellence:

A Three-fold Goal

Aim of Catholic Education is Development of Whole Man

A school is body, mind and spirit. Without this, the essence of a school, it is merely a building, an education simply an experience to be endured rather than valued and explored. Education is not just "two plus two equals four" and "water is H_2O", but a development of the student as a person. To this purpose, the student must give totally of himself – body, mind and spirit.

As the demands of an ever-changing world become more exacting, it is increasingly necessary to develop each person as a whole. The body must be able to stand the rigorous pace, set by those who have visualized their goals and strive to to attain them. A man must also be able to know and understand his fellow men as he must know himself. Finally a man must know God, for without God he is truly alone. Thus, to this three-fold purpose, Piqua Catholic is dedicated.



Excellence in sports has long been a tradition at Piqua Catholic in the development of body and spirit.

Piqua Catholic brings together the inquisitive student and dedicated teacher in the mind's pursuit for discovery.

Enthusiastic Faculty Adds Innovations To Old Traditions

Rev. Lawrence R. Schmieder,
Pastor of St. Boniface Parish

Rev. Robert Von Kaenel,
Pastor of St. Mary's Parish

The 1965-1966 faculty was composed of fifteen members – – two diocesan priests, a Precious Blood Father, five Religious Sisters of Mercy, and seven lay teachers. They were:

Rev. Robert J. Monnin : Principal, Religion IV.

Rev. Norbert Adelman C.PP.S. : Religion II.

Sister Mary Amadeus R.S.M. : English IV, Chemistry, Spanish I, II; Senior homeroom; Library Club, Future Teachers moderator.

Sister Mary Benjamin R.S.M. : General Science, Biology, Physics; Freshman homeroom 9A.

Mrs. Jean Chapman : Bookkeeping, Shorthand II, Typing II, Girls' Health and Physical Education; Junior homeroom 11A; Cheer Club moderator.

Miss Carol Fahy : Home Economics I, II, III; Religion I; Sophomore homeroom 10B; Play director.

Rev. Francis Fritz : Religion III.

Sister Mary Greta R.S.M. : Shorthand I, Typing I, II, Reading Skills; Junior homeroom 11B; Future Nurses Club moderator.

Mr. Robert Heil : American History, Drivers' Education, Boys' Physical Education; Athletic director; Head football, head baseball, freshman basketball coach.

Mr. Frank Neville : Band, Glee Club director.

Mr. Don Powell : English II, III; Speech, Yearbook adviser.

Sister Mary Stanley R.S.M. : English I, Latin I, II; Freshman homeroom 9B, Journalism adviser.

Mr. Thomas Titus : World History, Problems of Democracy; Guidance director; Assistant football, reserve basketball, golf coach.

Mr. Tony Vedova : General Business, General Mathematics, Boys' Health and Physical Education; Head basketball, assistant football, assistant baseball coach.

Sister Mary Walburga R.S.M. : Algebra I, II, Plane Geometry; Trigonometry and Analytic Geometry; Sophomore homeroom 10A; CSMC moderator.

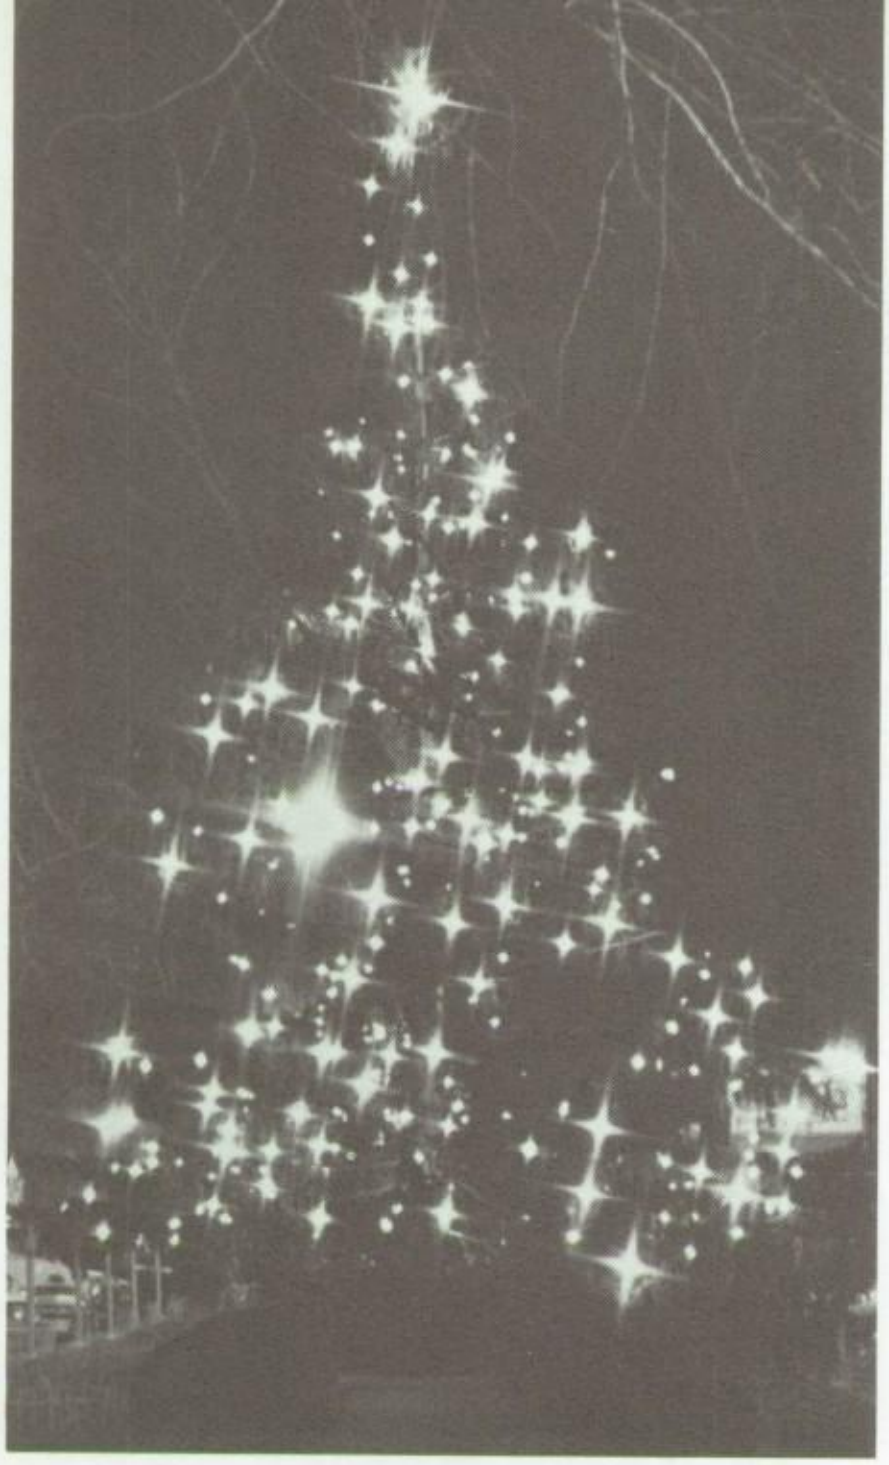
In Memoriam:
Rev. Aloysius Monter

Pastor, Saint Boniface Parish
1920 - 1965
Deceased December 15, 1965

Thousands upon thousands of words have been written and have survived through the centuries. But knowledge, patience and humor cannot be measured in words, even in the letters which compose these words. Father is a word. An unconquerable word for an unconquerable man. The structure of a man lies in the mind, the hand, and the face. The mind, alert, quick-witted and full of answers. The hands, those of life itself – – aged, yet full of strength. The face, impish with an everlasting smile. In his eyes were years of experience mixed with the sad and the happy. This was Father Monter.

Active in many fields, Father Monter enjoyed doing the things that his people enjoyed. Father Monter was truly one of the "Young at Heart."



Etched against the blustry, winter sky, the lights of the city Christmas tree challenge the brilliance of the stars.

Atomic City Steadily Rises

Piqua is more than just a community. It is a city with a past, and even greater, it is a city with a future.

With a population of slightly less than 20,000, Piqua is the largest city in Miami county. It is famous not only for its atomic plant, quarries, and business opportunities, but also for its schools, its scholars and its athletes. Because of its ideal location on the Miami Valley, Piqua has come to be known as the "crossroads of the Upper Miami Valley."

The name Piqua has a very interesting legend. "In the distant past, after the burning of a captured enemy, warriors gathered in feast and ritual . . . Seated about a fire, now reduced to glowing embers, they were startled by a great puffing which stirred the ashes . . . Behold! a full-formed man rose slowly upward from the white heap and the Indians cried in fearful amazement, 'Otah-he-wagh-pi-qua!' which in their language means 'He has come out of the ashes.'" Thus, the origin of the beautiful and romantic name of Piqua.

Bustling with activity, Piqua blinks and flashes its lights below a darkening nocturnal sky.

ACADEMICS

Students Trace Man Through History

Only through the study of history can man hope to profit from the mistakes of previous generations. It is this guiding principle that dictates the social studies courses at Piqua Catholic. In former years Sophomores took a course limited to the Western World. This year it has been broadened to include not only the history of the Western World but also the culture of the Eastern World. This new course is known as World Culture. In the Junior year the course becomes a study of ourselves as American History is the keynote. In a certain sense this course is not completed until the Senior year where a broad study of American government, Problems of Democracy, is presented to the student.

Miss Carol Fahy relates to her freshman class her experiences in New York at the time of Pope Paul's historic visit to America.

Coach Heil explains the Declaration of Independence to Vince Staley.

Father Adelman gives the Sophomores a rare opportu-

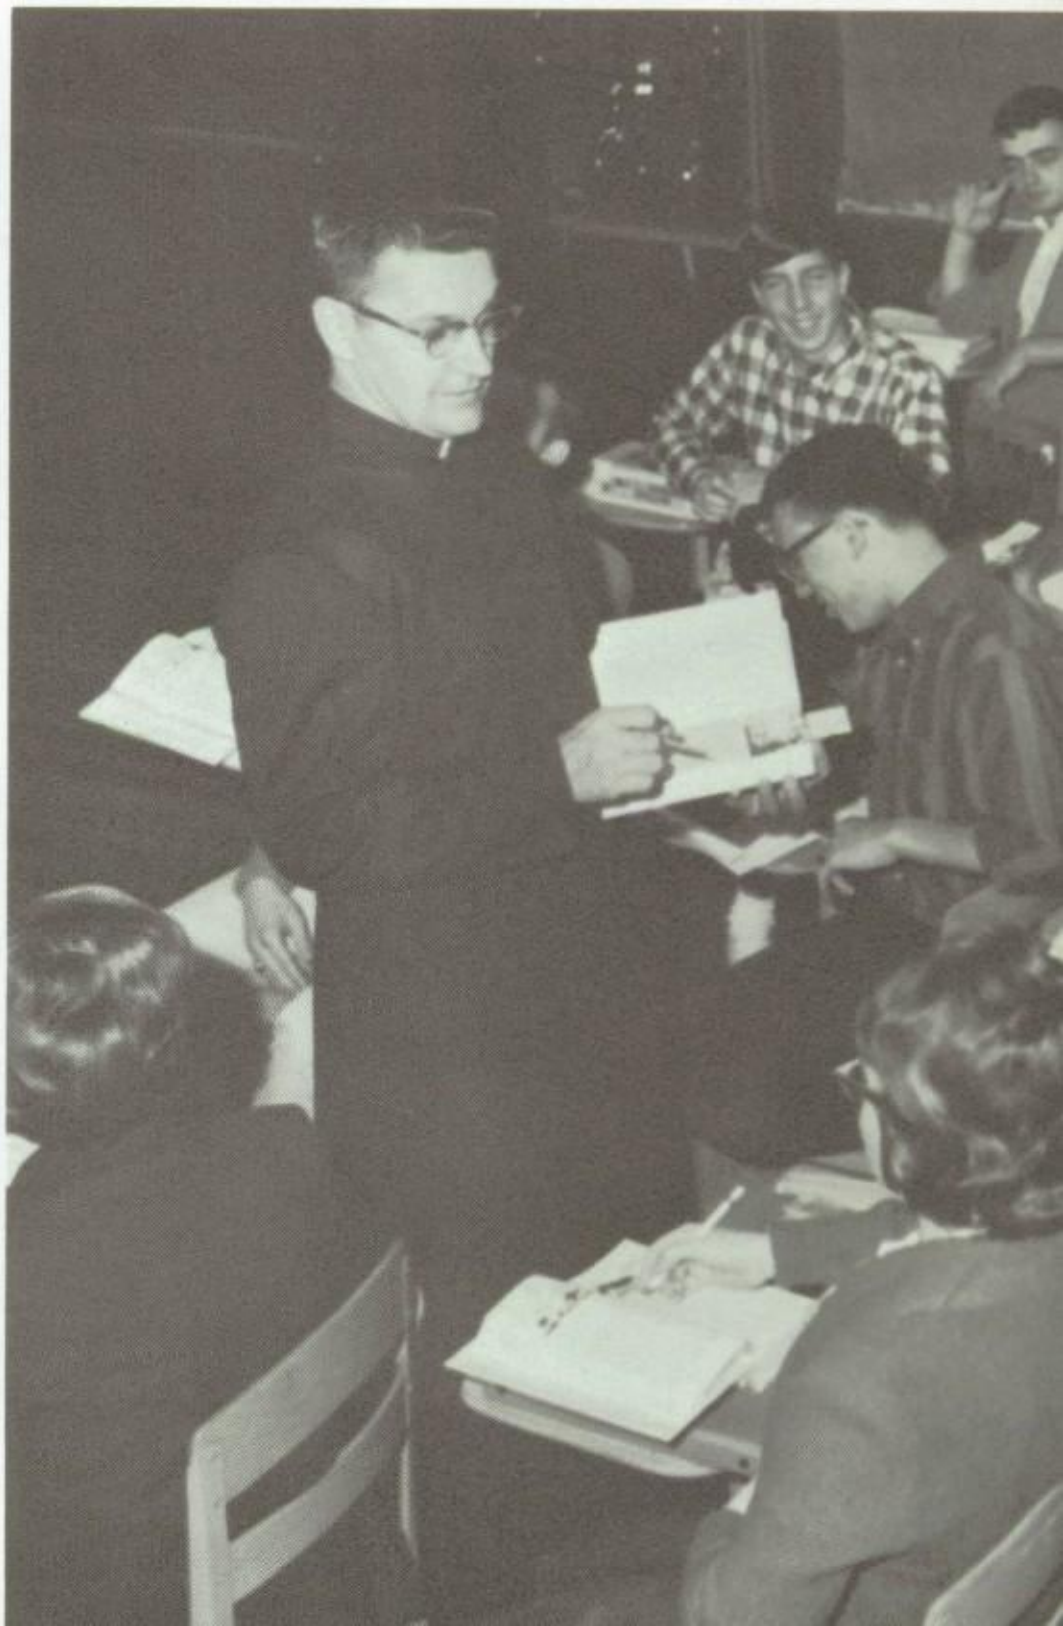
Dave Pierson and Cindy Staley learn about the early history of China in World Culture class.

Religion Draws Man Toward God

Closely associated with history is the very essence of man and his purpose for existence - - God. The religion courses attempt to give the student a firm foundation in Catholicism which will guide him throughout the rest of his life. Pure dogma is supplemented with practical advice on problems met in daily life. The essential purpose of the course is not to force a student to do anything, but rather to make him want to do it on his own. Through training of this sort it is hoped that the student will be better prepared to meet the demanding challenges of the Church in the Modern World.

nity to handle the Sacred Articles of Mass.

Father Monnin took over the senior civics class for the first four months until permanent teacher Mr. Thomas Titus graduated from the University of Dayton.



Language - - Tool of Scholars

"Language," Noah Webster once said, "as well as the faculty of speech, was the immediate gift of God."

No matter what foreign tongue is spoken, what dialect, what word sound, language is still the the communication of men. To understand men themselves, we must understand their speech, their ideas and their movements.

In Latin I and II, students not only learn a foreign tongue, they learn about different people, different customs and habits. Latin mixes language with the history, and the past with the present.

Spanish is a combination of the new and the old. It is rapidly developing into one of the most widely spoken languages. Through study and hard work, students have become affluent not only in the speech and words, but also the customs.

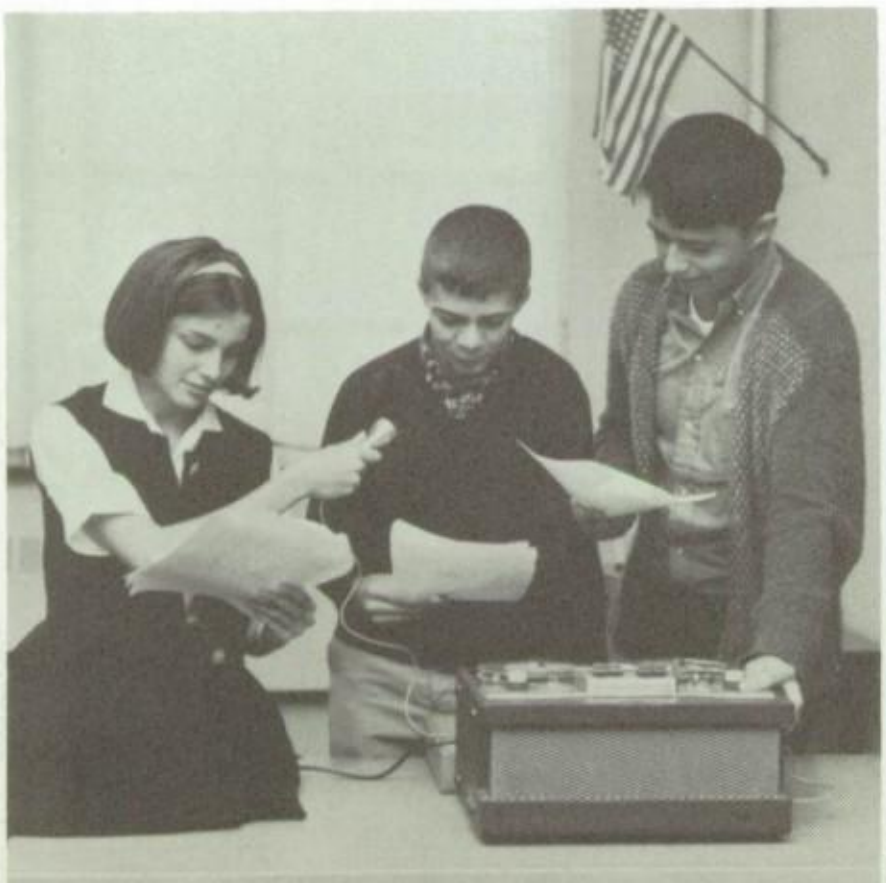
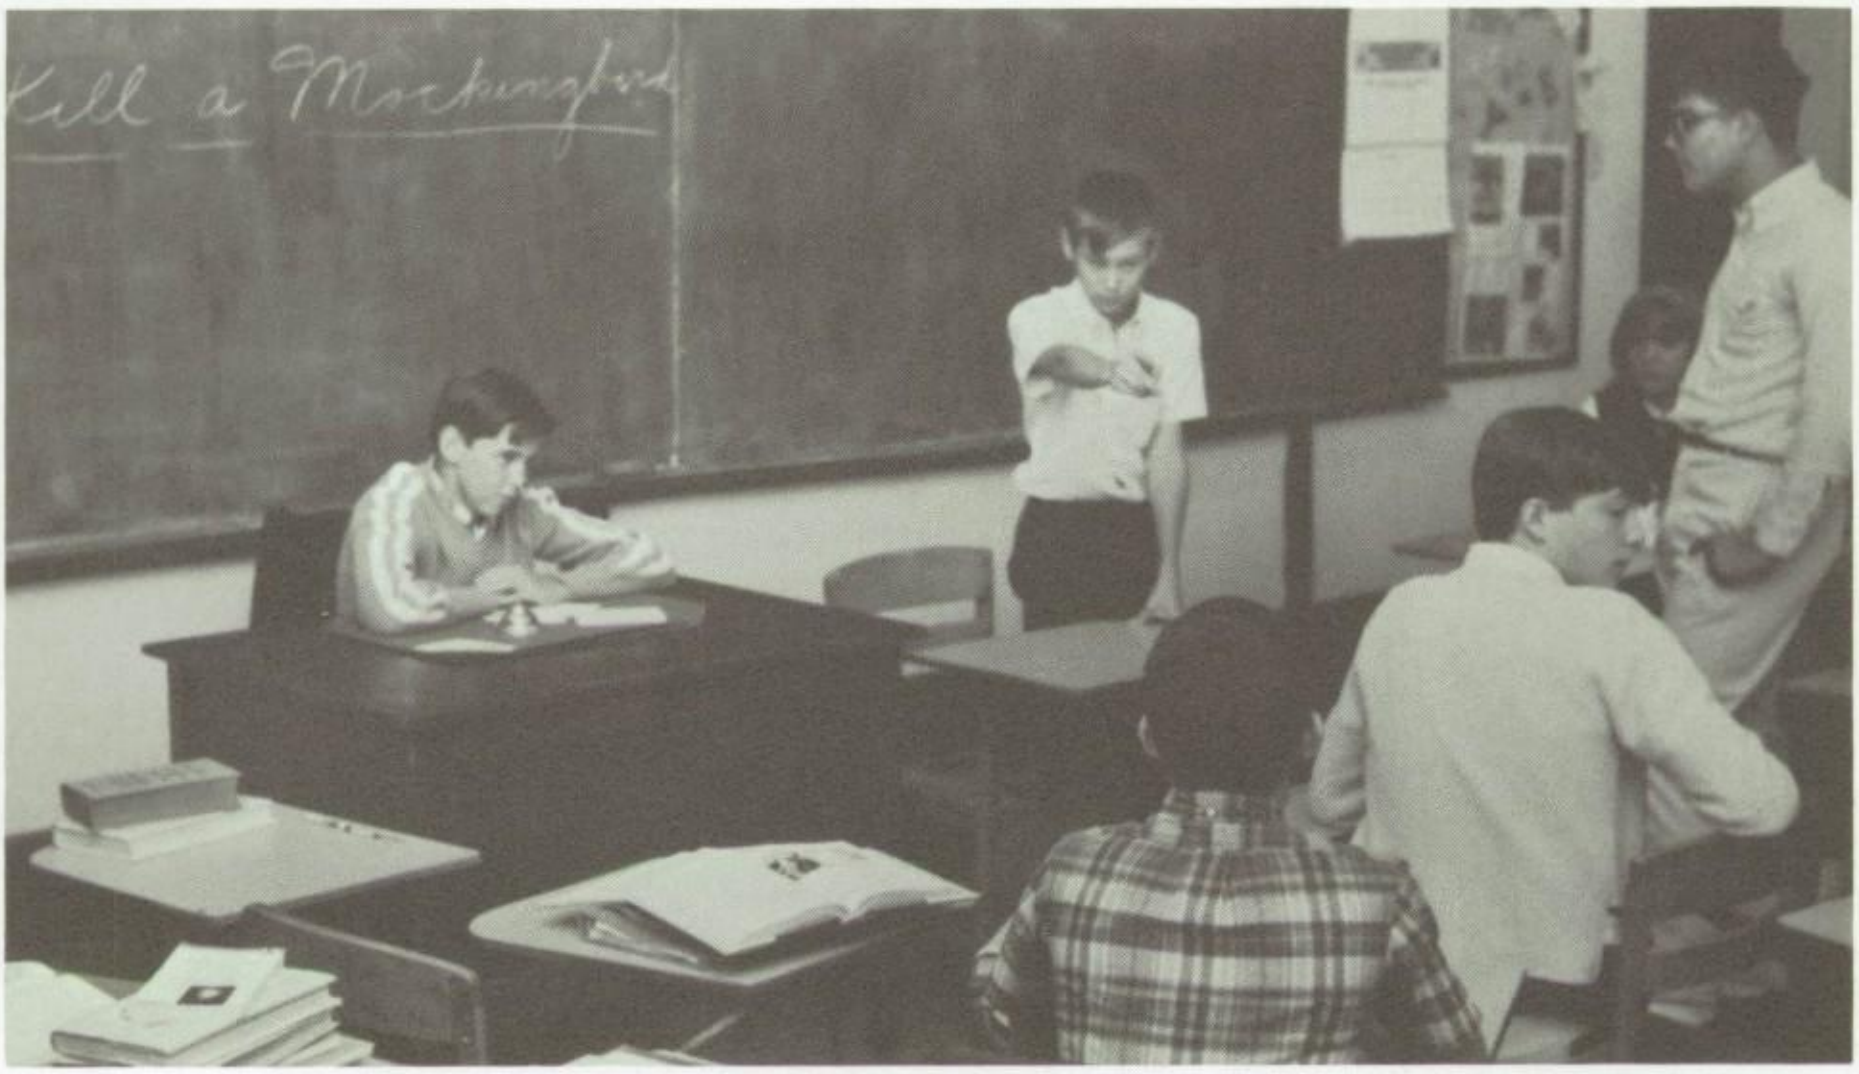
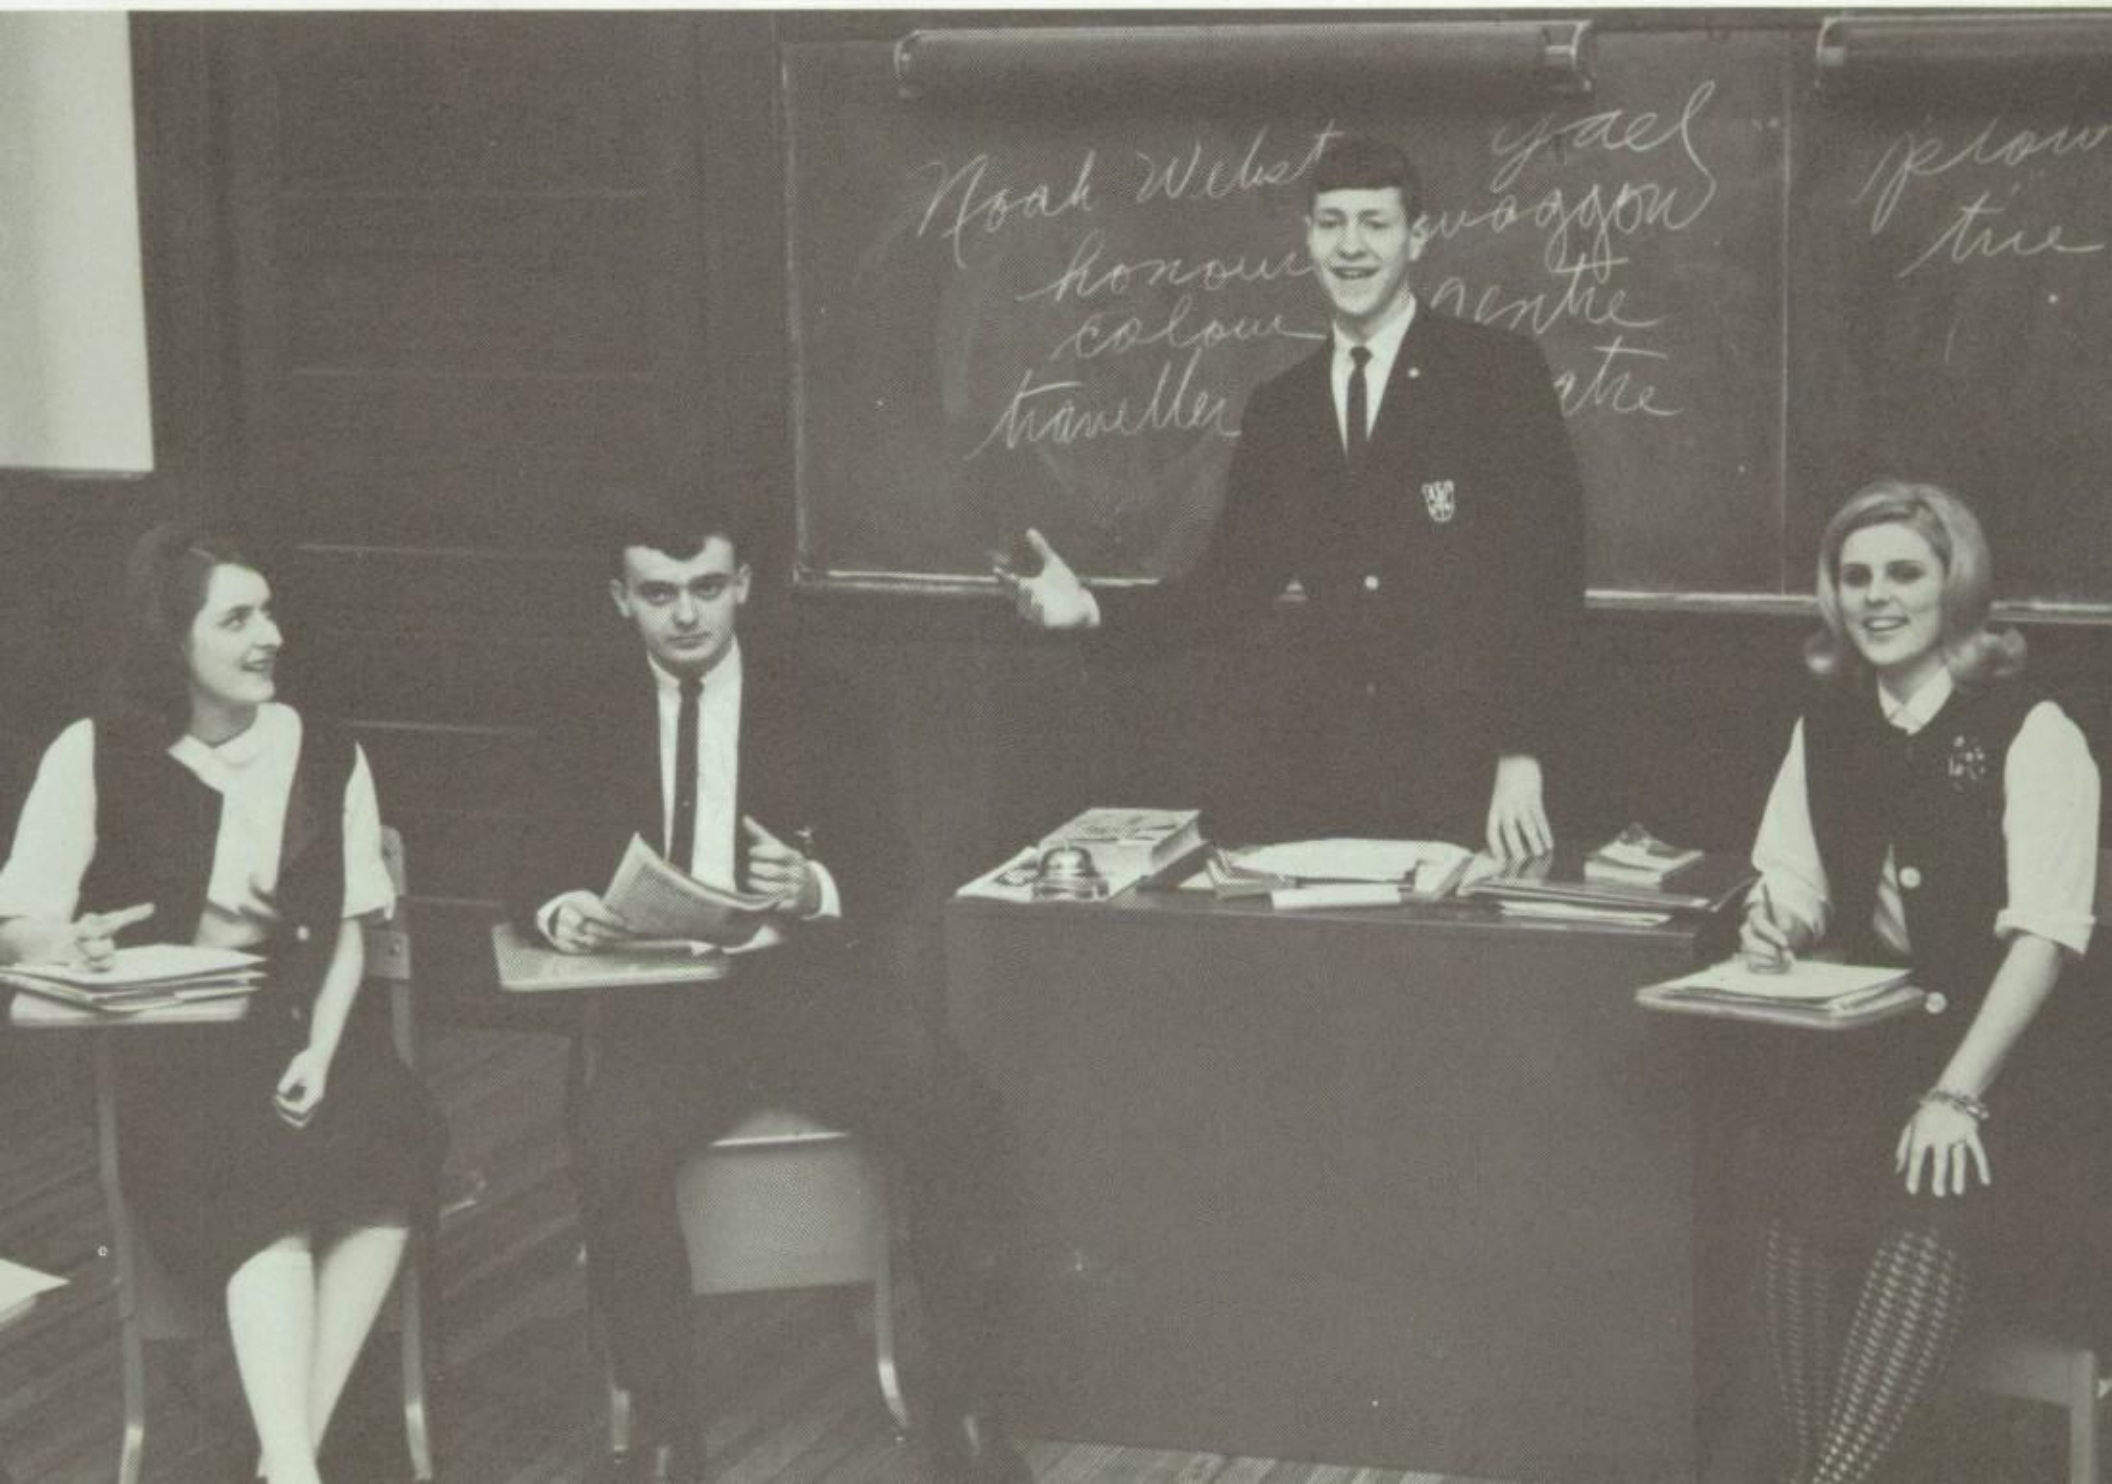
Recording scenes from the radio play "The Hitchhiker" are sophomores Kandy Hirt, John Crist and Mark Stephenson.



Mourning dead pinata are Dan Hennessey, Mike McKale, Harry Hobson, and Joyce Klopf.



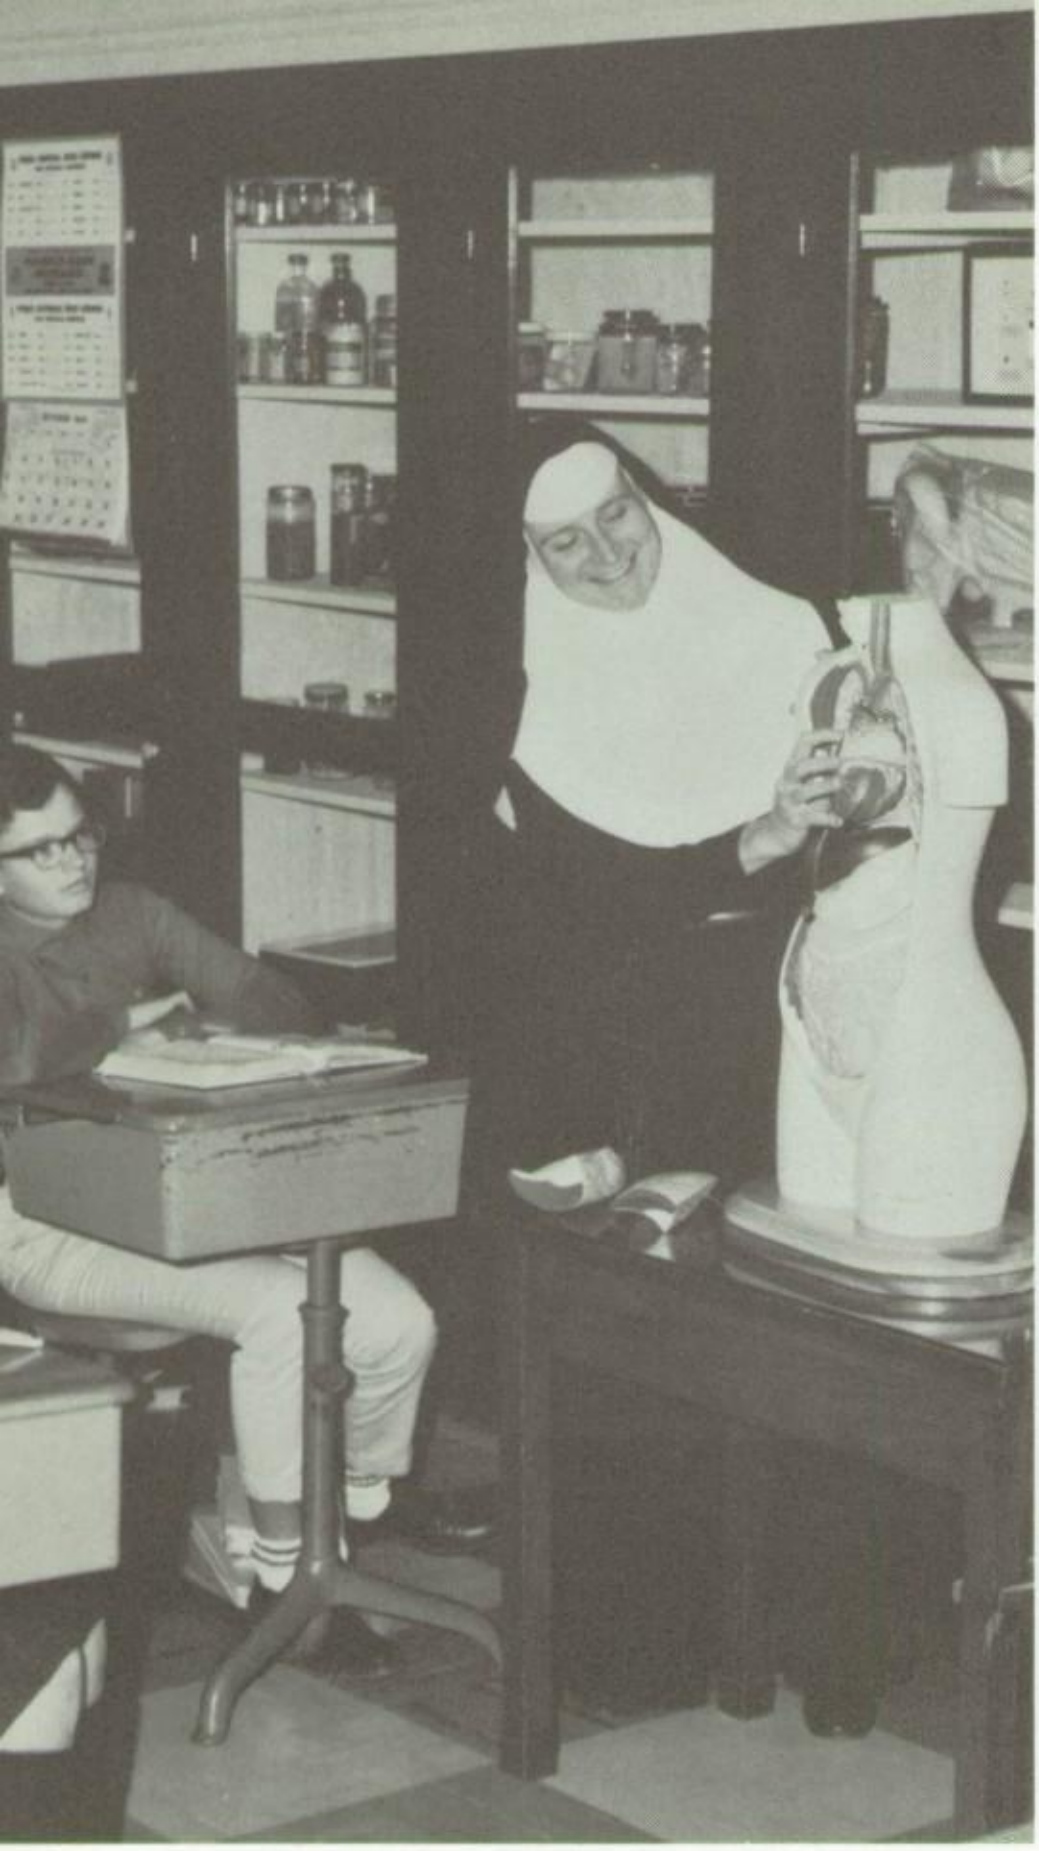
"Do you swear to tell the truth..." says Bob Hayes as he acts out a scene in the book, To Kill A Mockingbird.



Mary Tripp, Harry Hobson and Kitty Jordan listen to Mike Gaier as he introduces the speakers for the debate "Should the United States be involved in the Space Race?"

Science Reveals Life's Mysteries

Science is the study of man and his thinking. General Science gives the student a basic knowledge of all science. Biology teaches him the wonders of man and the world around him. Chemistry donates a concept of details to the student. Physics demonstrates the laws governing the universe. Together they prepare the student of today for life in a science-centered world.



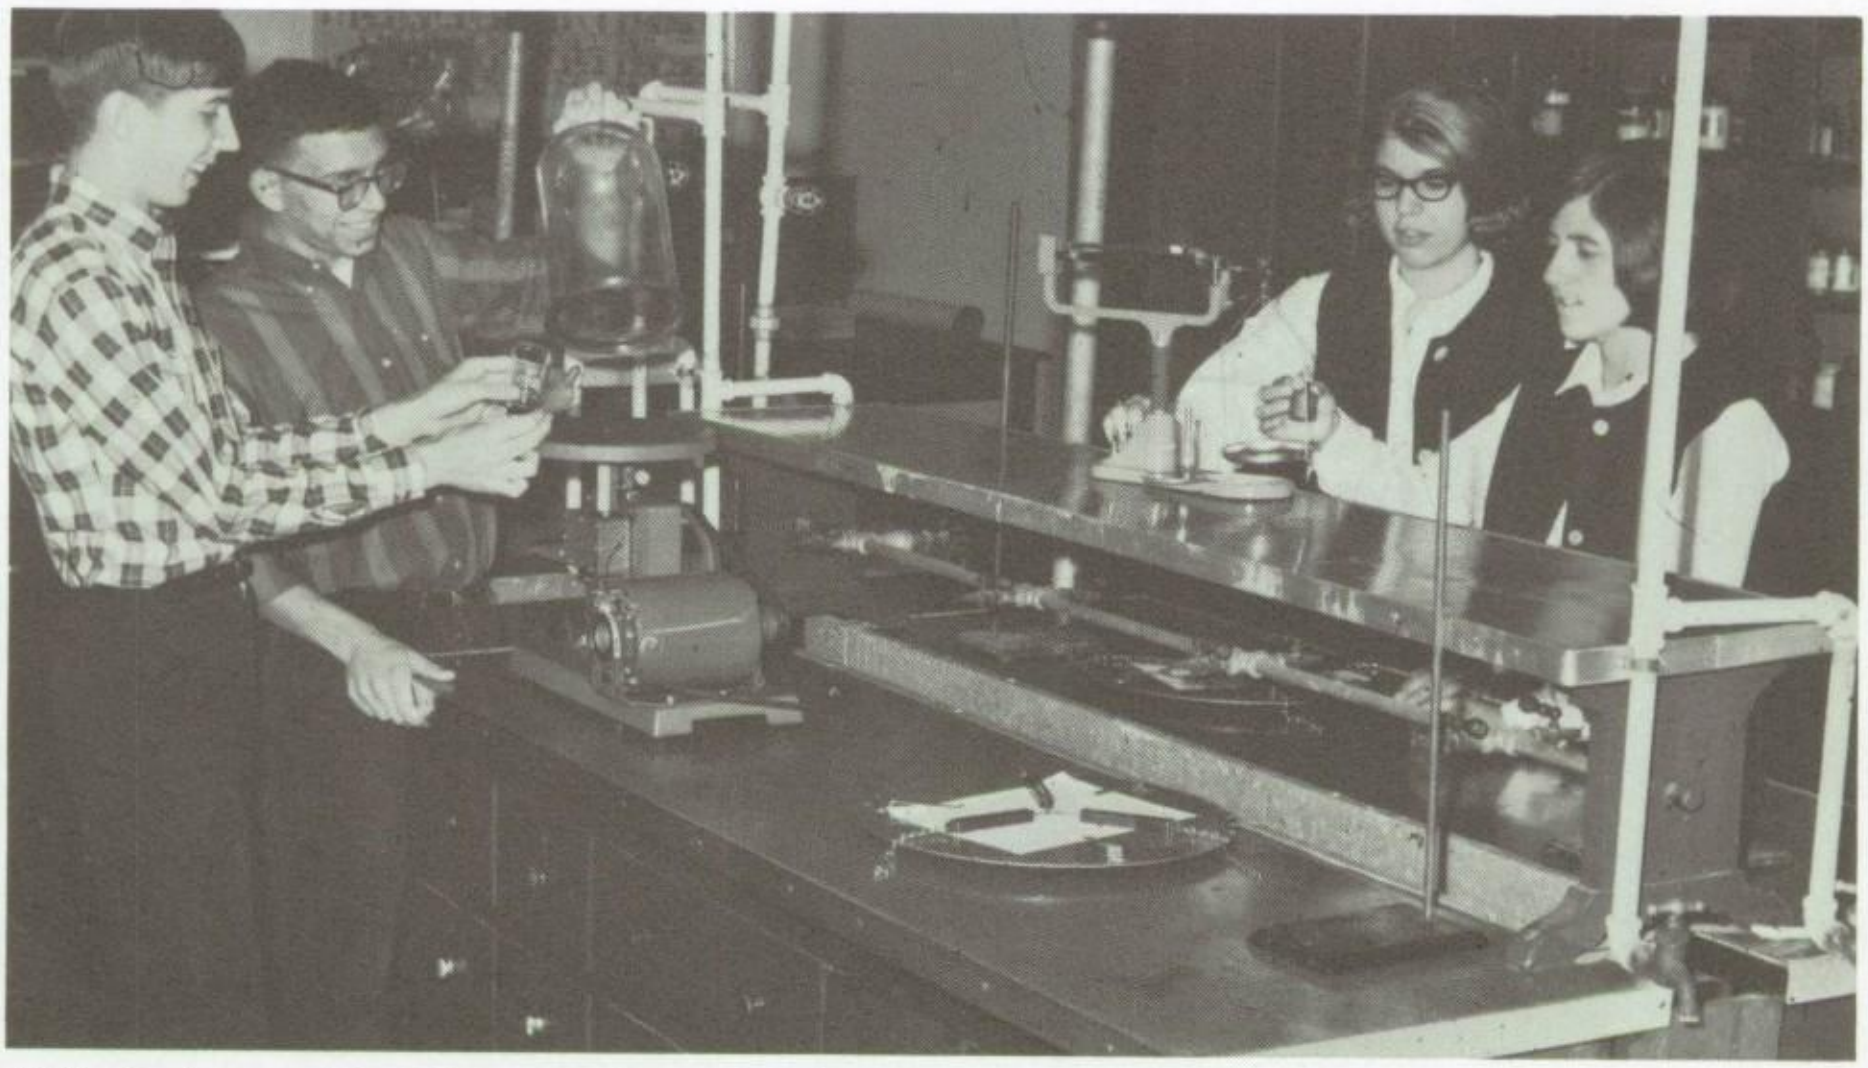
Sister M. Benjamin makes use of a plastic model to show the functions of the aorta.

E. Treon and M. Peltier watch J. Thoma as he prepares to disect a fish.

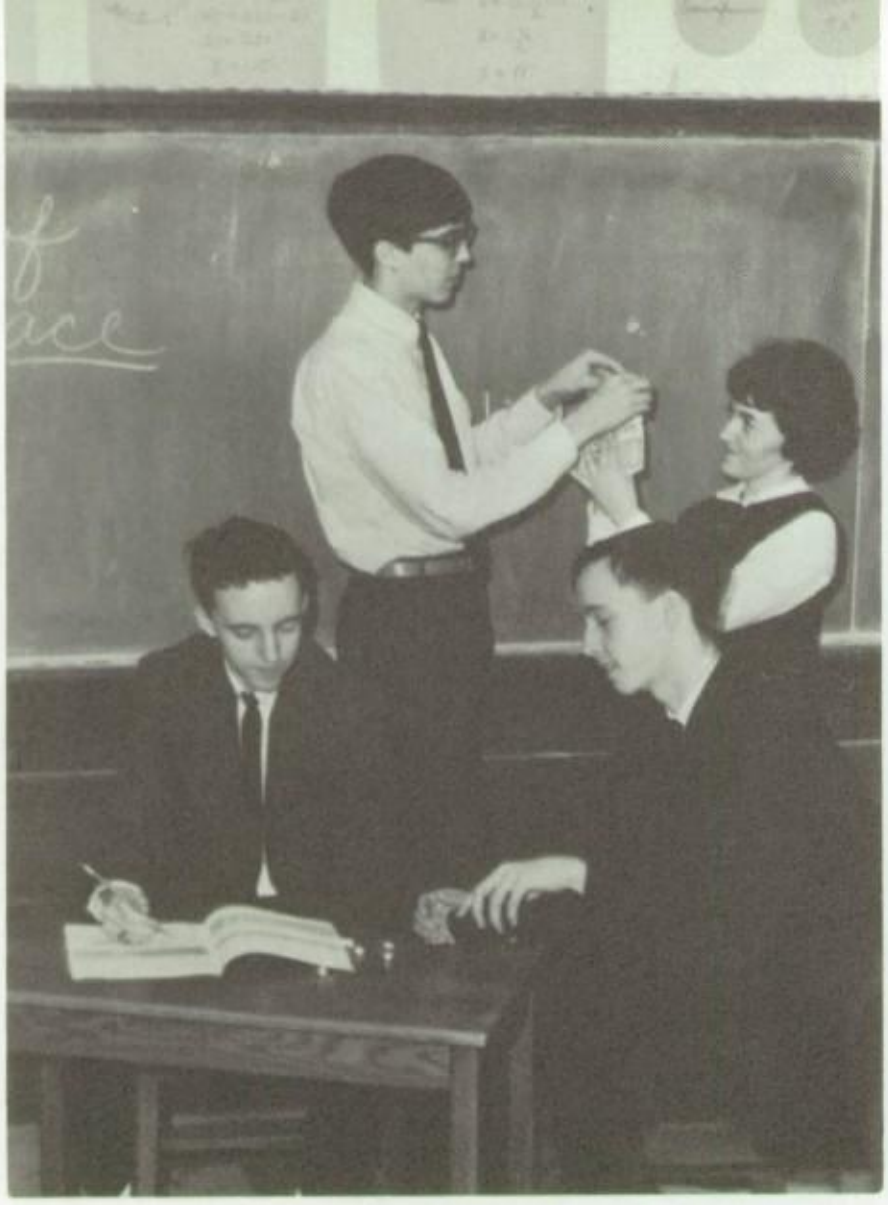
General Science students experimenting with pitch and sound waves are: Top picture: J. Fischer and R. Jordan: Bottom picture: M. Pierson, B. Fogt, D. Jones.

"Give me one more demerit and I'll drop this tube of nitroglycerin," says D. Mikolajewski to Sr. M. Amadeus, as F. Schoening and M. Wagner prepare some more.

The laboratory period is important in the study of Chemistry. Here the students can put their knowledge to use in experiments.

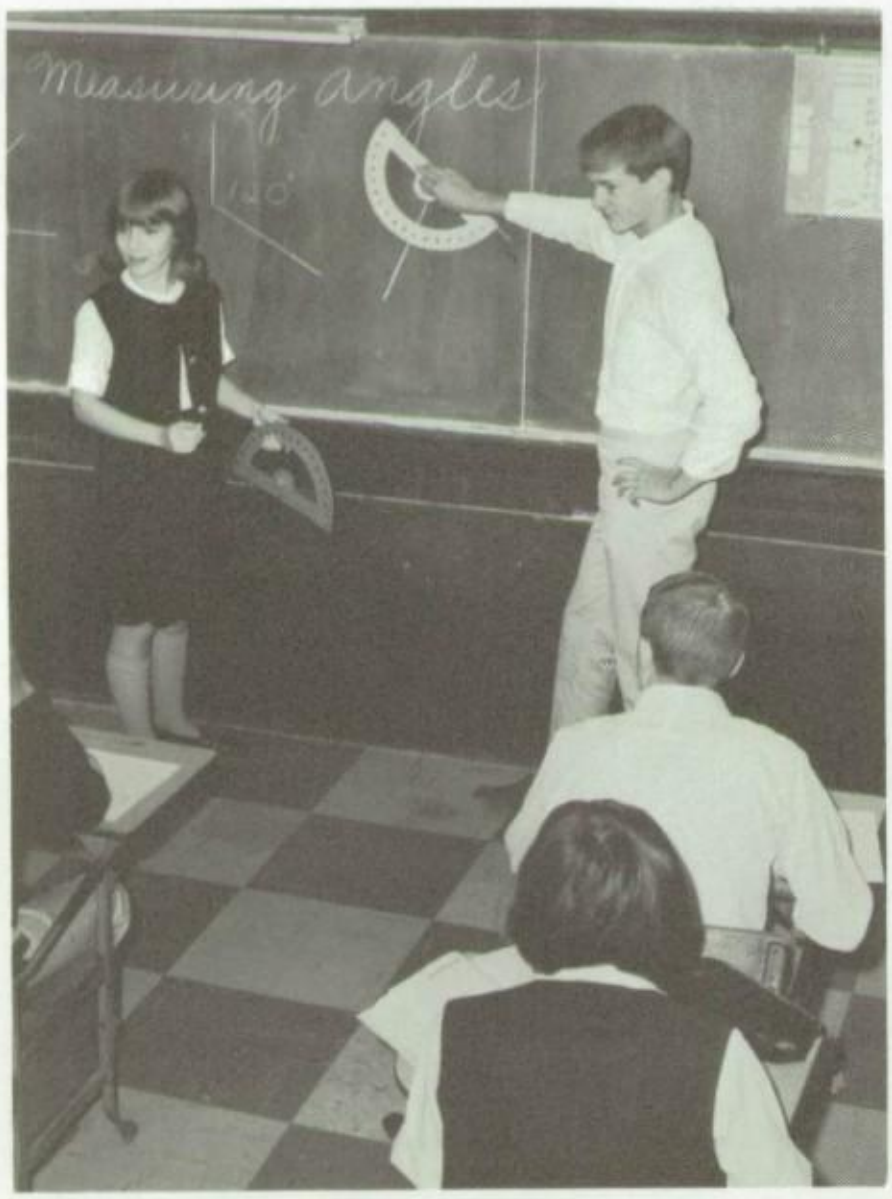


While C. Alyger and D. Albano experiment with the vacuum pump, J. Klopf and M. A. Decker locate the accuracy of the scales.



"Pick a card, any card," says Cindy Johnston to Frank Schoening as Mike and Dick Klosterman experiment on a probability table during Algebra II.

"You show us then," says Sister Walburga to John Lange as Mary Ann Decker and Chuck Peltier back her up.



Karen Koenitzer and Dan Wiersma discuss the use of a protractor in measuring angles.

Sister Walburga presents the problem to Mary Gaier as Patty Hemm dictates it to Tom Wagner.

Math Encourages Sound Reasoning

Mathematics is the science of thinking. Theories of great men become the challenge of students. To some students, these challenges become goals in life. To others, they are the preparation for the approaching years. General math gives the student a background in the basics of numbers. Algebra I acquaints him with the discovery of unknowns. Geometry teaches the student logical reasoning. Algebra II introduces him to the study of formulas. Trigonometry instructs the student in functions and analysis.

Mr. Tony Vedova asks Bill Hayes to find the rate and percentage during General Math.

Students Prepare For Careers

Careers of the future are molded in the business classes of today. Hence the recipient of a career is going to be a leader of tomorrow. The students work hard to make the grade. They practice intently to obtain the success of tomorrow through the failures of today. Some plan to enter the business world in careers as secretaries, clerks, administrators, and accountants. Helping these students attain their goals are Sister Mary Greta, R.S.M., and Mrs. Jean Chapman.

Business students listen intently as Mrs. Chapman explains the ins and outs of finance.

Home Economics Class Trains Model Homemaker

This year a new home economics teacher worked with the Sophomore, Junior and Senior girls in courses which enlightened them on what the model homemaker should be like. These classes also trained the girls in the basic cooking and sewing skills.

Physical education helps develop the body. A strong mind needs a strong body and gym classes strive to make the students fit.

Drivers Training not only encourages safe driving, but provides for many an opportunity to learn to drive which they might never have without this extra course.

Cheer Club, Cheerleaders Work Together

With more than fifty members, the Cheer Club was forever busy working on various projects in order to boost school spirit. Early in the summer, the Cheer Club held a dance to raise money with which to buy their attractive blue and gold sweaters. These added much style and uniformity to the cheering block.

Again during the year, the Cheer Club promoted a project, selling Cavalier bumper stickers to students and old grads alike. Besides earning money for themselves, they helped spread the PCHS spirit and increase backing of the football and basketball teams. All told, the Cheer Club and cheerleaders did a fine job of sustaining school pep and pride, and building a better PCHS.

The varsity cheerleaders gave their all during the entire season to keep spirit high. Below; P. Shellenberg and J. Monnier.

Journalism and Yearbook staffs Record history

Each week P.C.H. students read over the Cavalier Courier. Often they do not realize the time and work which goes into the column. Monday is meeting day. Tuesdays and Wednesdays are spent in writing stories and Thursdays evenings are devoted to laying-out the paper. Much credit is due to these young journalists of tomorrow.

Over the past year much time has been spent in the Picada room. Devoted editors, writers and typists have worked diligently to produce the 1966 Picada. With the knowledge and experience gained in their endeavors, these students will be able to pursue careers in journalism, publishing and printing.

After checking stories and pictures for this week's column, Sister Mary Stanley, moderator of the Journalism Club, stops to chat with Harriet Howard, editor and Judy Monnier, associate editor.

After their weekly meeting, the Journalism Club gathers on the front steps of school. They are from the top row: J. Bass, J. Bernhardt, B. Yenney, P. Long, D. DeBrosse. Second Row: R. Harris, K. Emphasis Placed On Spiritual

The spiritual aspect of the PCH student was expressed in the religious activities scheduled throughout the year.

The beginning of March brought Piqua Catholic's annual student retreat. Rev. Fr. Theodore Heyburn C.SS.R. delivered a series of pungent conferences on varied topics. The retreat was given a new twist by the inclusion of a thought provoking movie and group discussions on conference topics.

The end of the same month saw the Cavalier's first Vocation Week. Religion students discussed vocations with a different teacher for nine consecutive days. The series was ended with a talk by Rev. Fr. William Wintermeyer of Purcell High School, Cincinnati, and a Bible Vigil.

May Crowning was held May 3 at Saint Mary's Church. The seniors chose Ann Beckert to crown the Blessed Virgin, and Shirley Treon, Mary Ann Decker, and Susan Christy to be her attendants.

The members of the 1966 May Crowning Court are: seated, Ann Beckert, queen; and standing, Shirley Treon, Mary Ann Decker, and Susan Christy, attendants.

Father Robert Monnin, principal, reads a passage from Sacred Scripture at the Vocation Week Bible Vigil.

One of the outstanding religious projects of the Columbian Squires was the purchase of a Nativity Scene which was placed on the post office lawn during the Christmas season.

Sister Mary Stanley, Steve Jacomet, Dave Hennessey, and Frank Schoening lead the singing of spirituals at the Vocation Week Bible Vigil.

Mike Gaier, president of the CSMC, initiates members of the freshman class into the CSMC during the annual initiation ceremony. Assisting him are, M. Routson, K. Weingart, B. Jones, J. Rossiter, and M. Hemm.

Success Marks Music Season

Long practice sessions and plenty of hard work added up to success for the students of Mr. Frank Neville, Jr. The marching band showed their adaptability by performing in all sorts of traditional football weather. They exhibited their hard won skills in such events as rallies, football games, and parades. Their long practices and hard work could certainly be seen in their performances.

Also under the direction of Mr. Frank Neville is the Glee Club. The Glee Club has shown much progress, not only in quality, but also in size. Both the marching band and the Glee Club had exceptionally successful seasons.

SPORTS

Louie Smith gives all in a final lunge for that proverbial extra yard.

The Cavaliers' mentors faced a difficult job this year with such a light team. Nevertheless, whether in victory or defeat they never forgot that the prime purpose of any sport is the development of the student into a person sound in body, mind, and spirit.

Cavaliers Attend School of Football And Learn to Become Men: Their Diploma – Experience.

Although victories came few and far between for the 1965 Piqua Catholic Cavaliers, the fiery spirit of pride and determination common to PCHS teams persevered. Great anquish and disappointment failed to discourage the young gridders, who, despite their relatively small size, practiced the long, hard hours each week in anticipation of meeting the oft-timed larger foe.

Working with a largely inexperienced team, Coach Robert Heil and his new assistants, Tony Vedova and Tom Titus, guided and instructed their charges; and although their efforts were not rewarded with victories, they earned the respect and admiration of the boys, who in turn learned many valuable lessons in sportsmanship and school spirit. So, in the true Cavalier way, the past is accepted as a lesson to be learned and all look forward to the building of a better tomorrow.

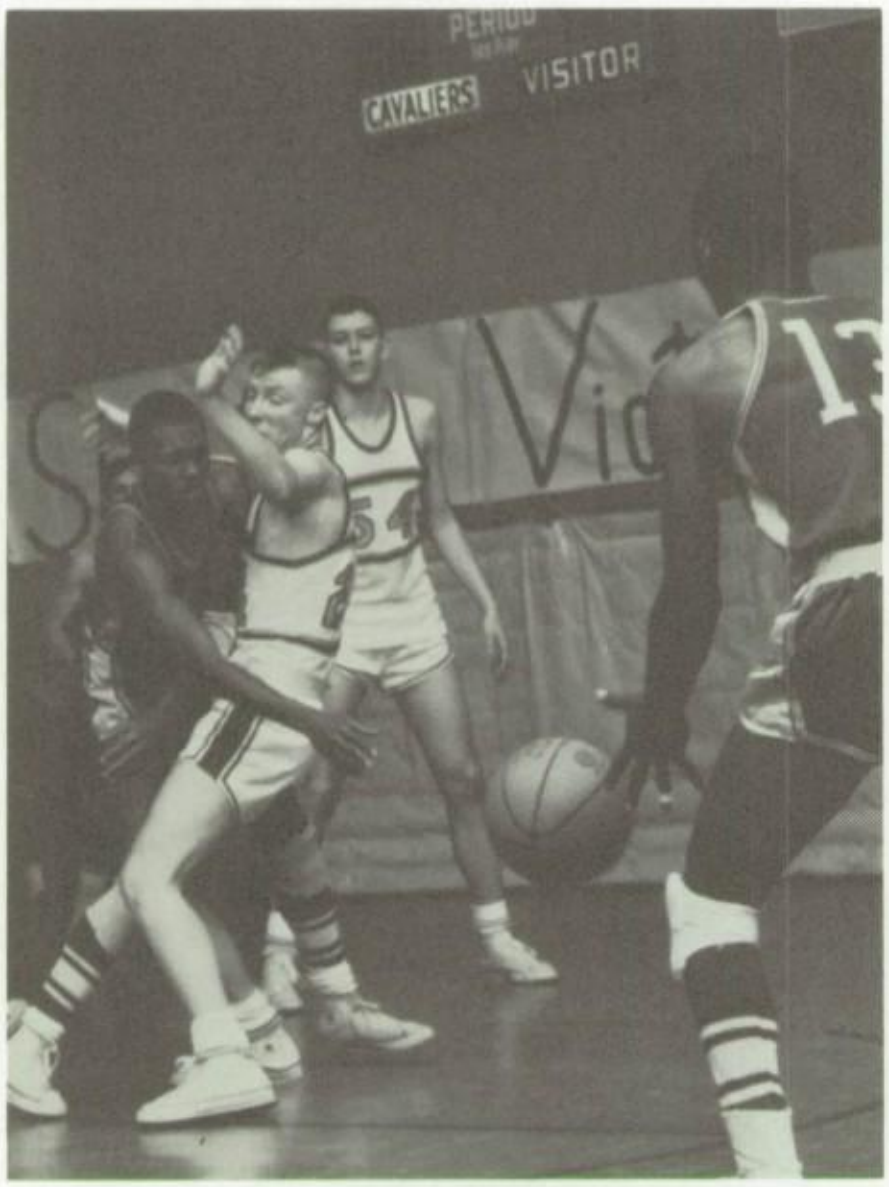
Cavaliers Keynote: Hustle



Jim Rossiter gets caught going the wrong way, toward the floor, in the Dayton Jefferson game.

Cavaliers Spirit Soars High

This year the Cavaliers faced one of their roughest schedules ever. Under the tutelage of new head coach Tony Vedova, the Cavaliers experienced a year filled with the joys of victory and the disappointments of defeat. This was rebuilding year for the Cavaliers who had only one starter back from last year. Often at a serious height disadvantage, the Cavaliers never quit displaying the tremendous spirit for which the Cavaliers have always been noted. Led by Captain Jim Rossiter the Cavaliers went on to compile a record of eight victories and twelve defeats. Many of these games were heart-breaking defeats lost only in the final minute of play. In these games the Cavaliers took a long step along the road to manhood. Mention must be given to Dan Wallace who was honored this year by receiving Special Honorable Mention State Class A Basketball Squad.

The reserves also had a new head coach this year in Tom Titus. Under his careful coaching these junior Cavaliers learned the basics that will prepare them for future varsity action.

Forty-one Participate In Spring Sports

The Piqua Catholic spring sports enthusiasts worked hard for another winning season. The baseball team's main opponent this year was the weather since about a third of the games were rained out. Preparing for the Wayne Conference games they collected a acknowledgeable record. The golf team, headed by Coach Tom Titus, had a hard season going against good competition. The tennis team, containing only two seniors, started with a winning season.

Freshmen Pitch In

A new world of dances, student council and advanced curriculum has been opened to the class of '69. With undaunted enthusiasim the freshmen have tackled such projects as a CSMC paper drive, Senior Farwell dance and a school spirit assembly.

In just one short year our freshmen have taken a giant step on the road to maturity and adulthood.

Sophs Take On School Projects

The sophomore class is constantly striving to create a complete atmosphere of pep and vitality. This spirit is displayed at games, in mission projects, and various school activities. Not only do they cooperate with the rest of the school, but they have arisen and led in their own special way.

PCH Presents 1965 Homecoming

The excitement of the Homecoming game was climaxed in pre-game ceremonies with the crowning of Miss Kathy Koenitzer as Piqua Catholic's 1965 Homecoming Queen. First attendant was Miss Pam Fischer and members of the court were Miss Judy Monnier and Miss Mary Tripp.

The following evening, the Homecoming dance, "Stairway to the Stars" was held in the gym. Juniors worked furiously all day to transform the gymnasium into a ballroom fit for a queen and her court.

Decorations consisted of a yellow backdrop with Queen Kathy lettered in blue. Gold stars illuminated the stage, the stairway and the ballroom walls. Excited couples danced to the music of Les Shepard's orchestra and the evening was one of enchantment and joy.

Co-captains Jim Stelzner and Tom Downs crown Kathy Koenitzer Homecoming Queen for 1965 during pre-game ceremonies.

The members of the 1965 Homecoming Court and their escorts are: J. Hurley, M. Routson, M. Tripp, J. Stelzner, Queen Kathy, T. Downs, P. Fischer, H. Hobson, J. Monnier, and M. Gaier.

What is a Senior?

A senior is a leader, but a follower;
A student, but a teacher;
A comic, but a thinker.

He is an adult, while yet a child;
An athlete, first a scholar;
He may be you, he may be me.

He seeks victory,
yet knows how to accept defeat;
He seeks knowledge,
feels accomplishment in sharing it;
He seeks to be part of a group,
through being an individual.

He likes to play, after he has worked;
He likes to talk, loves to listen;
He teaches to learn,
yet learns through his teaching.

A senior tries to love, loves to try;
He dies to live, yet lives to die;
Above all, he is a spirit, yet a reality.

He knows his goal, and strives to attain it;
But in pursuing it,
never sacrifices his principles.
This is a Senior.

Seniors Overcome by Crammed Schedule

With their final year moving at a rapid pace, seniors have tried to cram work and play into every available moment. Assuming new leadership duties, electing class officers, and establishing themselves firmly as the Class of 1966 took up most of the first month of high school. Through the second month, seniors slipped into a familiar pattern of studies. It was climaxed by Homecoming, a traditional senior event.

Time moved on with the completion of term papers, mission projects, a paper drive and bake sales. Before anyone realized it, the school had passed from football to basketball, and from first semester to second.

Next came the Valentine dance with senior candidates, Joyce Klopf and Keith Thornberry winning by a large majority. This meant that the Class of '66 had won three out of four years.

Within what seemed like a few weeks, May crowning approached. This was followed swiftly by graduation. All of this, and the Class of 1966 hadn't even had time to ask just where their time went!
